

WELCOME TO GREATER BRITAIN The People's Country

We're living through the madness of a fake pandemic, hoax climate, energy and war crises and, behind all that, craven governments and the looming presence of genocidal psychopaths.

Obviously no one country or group of activists is going to be able to deal with all that in one fell swoop but there is a way of rocking the boat and perhaps even holing our corrupt and deluded leaders below the waterline.

The plan is to announce a virtual country called Greater Britain. Signing-up will be entirely free and as an extra touch It would be marketed as "The People's Country". Given the disillusion with politicians, it could reach well beyond the Telegram fraternity and attract much of the remaining population.

It would be launched with a constitution and broadcast across social media, and sign-ups should grow fast. Big numbers could eventually give it big power and a million or more is not impossible. It would stay in regular contact with "constituents" by providing news updates and analysis, while acting as a much needed focus for campaigning groups and their activities.

Greater Britain would present itself as a virtual country that operates under natural law with a system of decision making and community representation that's democratic and conducted digitally.

Mainstream media would at first treat it as a joke but big numbers would give it real power – especially if there's a General Election in the offing. It could even grow into something more permanent and who knows where that might lead?

Our political system desperately needs to be reinvented and this could be a great way of doing exactly that. In short it might just deliver a much-needed lightning bolt.

With democracy teetering on the brink, something dramatic has to happen, and fast. The country needs to take a strong and principled stand and should welcome in the Democratic Republic of Greater Britain: The People's Country.
