

LAURA ABOLI mulls over the question that many are grappling with

She says, “I woke up early today and started writing what I’m about to share. It’s been haunting me lately and I feel a conversation must be had about it.”

• The Great Awakening... or the Great Psyop? (1/4)

The Battle Between Believers and Doubters

There’s a fight happening, and it’s not between the asleep and the awake, but within the awakened.

In one corner, you have those who believe Trump is the real deal; a wrecking ball sent into the deep state to expose, uproot, and dismantle the globalist machine.

In the other corner, those who believe he’s just another actor, a controlled opposition figure designed to pacify the masses while the agenda marches on.

Both sides see the system for what it is: corrupt, coercive, and crawling with predators. But they draw the line in a different place: Is Trump actually fighting the beast, or is he just another one of its heads?

That’s the debate, and it cuts to the heart of how we read the times we’re living in. So in the spirit of discernment, not division, I’m laying it out. The strongest points from both sides; the evidence, the contradictions and what’s at stake.

Let’s step into the ring, shall we?

• Round One — Trump the Swamp-Slayer (2/4)

The case for Trump as a true enemy of the globalist machine

Here are 11 signs that Trump is not just playing the part, but genuinely fighting to dismantle the system from within:

1. Schedule F & G – Reforms that allow mass firing of embedded bureaucrats. A direct assault on the protected machinery of the deep state.

2. Withdrawal from the WHO Treaty – Reclaiming U.S. sovereignty from global health technocrats. A move no other Western leader dared to make.

3. Targeting the Fed – Publicly challenging the Federal Reserve, calling for audits, and hinting at structural overhaul.

4. Tactical transparency – Pushing for the release of JFK files, Epstein evidence, Russiagate documents, and Clinton-era intel - the real evidence not the cooked files.

5. Rebuilding U.S. manufacturing – Tariffs, trade renegotiations, and reshoring. Challenging the globalist export of American industry.

6. RFK Jr., MAHA, and real health reform – With RFK Jr. leading the MAHA initiative, Trump is overseeing serious reforms: banning toxic food dyes, re-evaluating vaccine policies, and purging pharma influence inside the FDA and CDC.

7. Going after child traffickers – Under Trump-aligned DOJ efforts, major dark web networks have been dismantled and prosecutions are ongoing. The Epstein operation is still active in the background.

8. Defunding captured institutions – Pulling funding from NPR, PBS, DEI programs, and hospitals pushing child surgeries.

9. Challenging globalist alliances – Reducing NATO dependency, humiliating the EU at the trade table, and pressuring Israel from the outside in.

10. Restoring national sovereignty – Exiting TPP, opposing UN migration compacts, and rejecting climate treaties designed to strip national autonomy.

11. The reaction from the system itself – The media, the banks, the intel agencies, Silicon Valley — they all act like Trump is an existential threat. Would they fight this hard if he were really one of them?

• Round Two — Trump the Swamp Creature (3/4)

The case for Trump as controlled opposition — another face of the same system

To others, Trump is just another controlled variable — a manufactured icon to keep the resistance contained. Here's the black-pill case:

1. Operation Warp Speed – He pushed the bioweapon harder than anyone. Millions harmed. No admission of wrongdoing.

2. The company he kept – Pompeo, Barr, Bolton, Kushner. Swamp through and through.

3. Zionist loyalty – Embassy to Jerusalem. Bibi worship. Delayed criticism on Gaza.

4. No Epstein accountability – Epstein died on Trump's watch (but did he?). No major figures taken down. The network lives.

5. Theatrics over substance – He rallies, he roars, he posts memes. But where's the justice?

6. JD Vance, Peter Thiel, and Palantir – Trump's VP pick is linked to Peter Thiel, whose company Palantir builds surveillance tech used for population tracking. These are not allies of liberty.

7. The Q distraction – Years of cryptic promises. "Trust the plan." Always later. Always out of reach.

8. The system never cracked – The Fed still rules. The IRS still bleeds. The agencies are still weaponized. What's actually changed?

9. Controlled opposition optics – Just enough truth to keep us hopeful. Just enough delay to keep us waiting.

10. Big donors, same strings – Trump's still in the billionaire club. Still tied to the machine.

11. Reformer, not destroyer – His slogan isn't "end the system." It's "make it great again." But can you reform something this rotten?

These aren't naive criticisms. They come from people who understand how the system works and how it loves to give us heroes just to keep us distracted.

• Final Thoughts: Between the Hope and the Doubt (4/4)

After laying out both sides — the red-pillers and the black-pillers, the believers and the skeptics — I find that I still don't want to give up on the notion that Trump might be fighting the system.

Not because I want a hero to save me. As I've said many times, awakening is about learning to save oneself. But when I look at the facts and the tangible moves that have been made, the case for him being a disruptor still feels stronger than the case against.

The black-pill arguments are understandable, and many of them are grounded in valid concerns, which I share. But often they rely on optics, delays, associations, or the absence of visible action, rather than any clear proof that Trump is "one of them." By contrast, the red-pill perspective points to real decisions, real reforms, and real disruptions to the system.

But beyond all of that, I think we often overlook just how enormous and complex this system truly is. The evil we're dealing with isn't just political or financial, it's spiritual.

This is a centuries-old power structure rooted in deception, manipulation, and control. Not just of governments and economies, but of human consciousness itself. It reaches into everything: medicine, food, education, culture, money, belief, identity. It is a web so deeply embedded in the fabric of our world that tearing it down carelessly could bring everything down with it.

So how do you fight something like that?

How do you dismantle an empire of lies without dragging the entire world into chaos?
How do you expose that much darkness without breaking the minds and hearts of those still waking up?

I sometimes think we fail to fully grasp the depth of this war. That the reason things are taking so long, or seem so hidden, is because this is a spiritual war as much as it is a geopolitical one. And the battlefield isn't just out there — it's inside of us. It's going to take time, and patience, and courage, and strength.

There is a timing to everything. Patience is considered a virtue for a reason. Perhaps we need to practice it more...
